Summary

During the reporting period number 4 and number 3 project partner RERA SD organized two teaching events with the aim to enhance the scientific and technical capabilities on practical applications and operative quantitative analyses for Ecosystem approach to fisheries. AF. The events were organized in Ston (Dubrovnik county and Komiža, Split-Dalmatia county) targeting policy makers, regional administrations, local technical agencies, and FLAGs representatives.

Report from Technical event for policy makers in Ston

The Technical event was organized in parallel with the Infodays of FAIRSEA project in Mali Ston on 18th and 19th of May 2020. Public institution RERA D.D. together with the Association “Stonski školjkari” and the University of Dubrovnik organized the event. During the event professor dr.sc. Ivan Katavić gave the presentation including these the four topics (Figure 1):

- Fisheries Management Regulations in the Adriatic Sea
- Stakeholders in the decision making process
- Fisheries management based on the ecosystem approach
- Decision support systems in fisheries

The participants of the meeting were representatives of regional, local and national decision makers, associations, universities, research Institutes and operators from the aquaculture sectors.

The external expert Ivan Katavić Phd produced also an educative brochure describing the EAF.
