MUSEO DELTA ANTICO OPEN AIR SECTION OPENING IN COMACCHIO VALLEYS

Thanks to VALUE project, on Saturday 25 June at 11 am, the first Open Air Museum related to the ancient city of Spina will be opened, becoming a real external section of Museo Delta Antico. This Open Air Museum, run by the Municipality of Comacchio and the History Culture and Civilization Department of the Alma Mater Studiorum University of Bologna, in the person of Prof. Antonio Gottarelli, will allow, for the first time, to "appreciate live" what once must have been Spina. In fact, it will be possible to walk between two large houses, in full scale, entirely made of wood and marsh reeds, and build following the clues offered by archaeological research. One of the two houses will be a museum and will be intended as an ancient Etruscan house. The other house will instead be used as a classroom and will act as a reference point for all those educational activities that will take place in the Valleys district. The point chosen to recreate these museum installations is not accidental. The landscape that we appreciate today when visiting the Comacchio Valleys is very close to the environment that 2500 years ago a Greek or an Etruscan could admire when visiting the great Spinetico emporium.

INTERNET WEBSITES RELATED TO VALUE PROJECT

Within the VALUE project, various platforms or websites have been created or involved.

<https://diomede.parcodeltapo.org/value> is the web platform (with relative progressive web application) for the enhancement of the Italian-Croatian districts. These tools were created through a mapping activity that was carried out in collaboration between the Veneto Region and Emilia Romagna and the regional superintendencies.

www.studipomposiani.it is the site created as part of the pilot action linked to the Pomposa Abbey (Codigoro). Over 500 manuscripts relating to the history of the Abbey have been digitized and collected to give scholars, curious and enthusiasts the opportunity to enjoy them freely.

Already existing but became part of the VALUE project thanks to the pilot action of the Island of Cres, with the restoration of 75 km of ancient rural paths. The archipelago of Cres-Lošinj was formerly called Apsyrtides, hence the name chosen for the

Furthermore, the attractiveness of our Valleys, with an annual audience of around 35,000 visitors, will be able to act as an attraction for the Ancient Delta Museum.

ARCHEOGIOCHI OPENING AT MAN ADRIA

On June, 9th 2022, the park of Museo Archeologico Nazionale di Adria hosted the opening of the Archeogiochi. The path, created as part of the WP4 action of VALUE project, consists of four large educational and recreational wooden infrastructures.

The Archeogiochi are totally inclusive, thanks to the tactile, auditory and olfactory games.

The aim was to create a park able to call back four of the main archaeological themes that visitors can discover inside the Museum: the Hellenistic 'Tomb of the Chariot'; navigation in the Upper Adriatic; public buildings and roads in Roman times.

trail that extends from the northernmost point of the island of Cres, Cape Jablanac, to Cape Radovan, the southernmost point of the island of Ilovik .

FINAL CONFERENCE

The final conference of the VALUE project was held on 17 and 18 June in Venice, an opportunity to present the activities and pilot projects carried out between Italy and Croatia.

Numerous interventions, including Roberto Cantagalli, Municipality of Comacchio, leader of the project, highlighted how the realization of the project allowed to lay the foundations for the creation of a real supraregional cultural district. The representatives of the various project partners then intervened and presented the results achieved.

The conference was also attended by Silvia Comiati, Joint Technical Secretariat of the Italy Croatia program, who presented the objectives and perspectives of the new Italy Croatia program for 2021-2027 and Fausta Bressani, Veneto Region, who underlined how the activities carried out will be a springboard for tourism development based on the integration of the cultural, scientific and production chain.
